

Team member for our energy software business required

Lausanne-based

E4tech is a successful sustainable energy consultancy and energy software company concentrating on the overlap between energy technology, environmental needs and business opportunities. We work for a wide range of prestigious international clients in the industrial, financial and government sectors through our offices in London and Lausanne. Our software business currently sells a range of products to customers in different countries across Europe.

Continued growth in our software business means that we plan to expand our Lausanne team. The new employee will participate in the development of markets for energy software across Europe, by driving growth in marketing, distribution and customer support, together with opportunity identification, software development, firm-building and support work.

Suitable candidates will have a strong background in the building sector (preferably energy), plus commercial experience gained in a commercial setting, combined with enthusiasm, drive and initiative. Fluency in one of English, German or French and a good working knowledge in the others are essential. Knowledge of our software Lesosai would be an advantage.

You will join a high calibre team who work interchangeably between Lausanne and London. Career development is important to E4tech and you will face a broad range of challenges. Your remuneration will be based upon experience and performance.

To apply, please email your CV and a short note explaining why you would like to join E4tech to jobs@e4tech.com.

Further information is available via www.e4tech.com
